I saw them both just the other day on Chestnut street wearing cape suits of blue tweed, one a shade darker than the other, with hats and stockings to match, and black slippers. They usually dress alike, though they wear different colors. Evelyn is president of her class at Miss Irwin's, I imagine they will both come out the year after next.

OF COURSE you saw the donkey at the Devon Horse Show with baskets of flowers on him, but did you hear of the screaming thing he did the other day at the show? Marguerite Boyle, who was leading him around selling flowers, happened to pass through the "restaurant" and stopped to speak to some one. While her head was turned Mr. Donkey quietly sidled up to one of the tables where lunch was being server on the lawn, gently put his head over a lady luncher's shoulder and started to share her meal. You can imagine the reception he received. NANCY WYNNE.
